Portland Public Library is pleased to present Around the House, an art show by the Center for Maine Contemporary Art (CMCA) featuring 17 contemporary Maine photographers in the Library's Lewis Gallery. Organized by CMCA curator emeritus Bruce Brown, the exhibition opens with a public reception from 5 to 8pm during Portland's First Friday Art Walk on January 6. It will remain on view during regular library hours through January 28.

Comprising nearly 60 images, the show ranges from evocative portrayals of interior spaces, architectural details, and home furnishing, to humorous and poignant depictions of family life. Addressing these familiar subjects, the 17 photographers share their unique visions and offer viewers new and fresh insight to our collective everyday experiences.
